Art Gallery of Ballarat

In 1884 a group of influential citizens were determined to recreate the cultural pursuits they had known in the Old World and decided to establish the Ballarat Fine Art Public Gallery.

Since then the building and the collection have continued to grow to produce one of the best collections of Australian art anywhere in the world.

Supporting the Gallery

The Association works to support the Gallery, its building, collection, activities and programs.

The Association gave the building and collection to the Ballarat City Council in 1979 but is still closely involved with the life of the Gallery. The Association raises funds for acquiring new artworks and to conserve artworks in the collection, helps to sustain the Gallery's active program of talks, tours, concerts and exhibition openings and is represented on the Gallery's Board of Directors.

Becoming a member of the Ballarat Fine Art Gallery Association is the best way to enjoy all our exhibitions and programs and to support Australia's oldest and largest regional art gallery.
